

BRIAN HALSELL

ASLA | Principal

Brian Halsell, a Master Naturalist, and horticultural expert, brings 19 years of expertise in natural systems, native plants, wildlife, and regional construction methods to each project. He pursues the integration of sustainability, mission, and budget to surpass project expectations. Brian is adept in his management of collaborative teams and participation in the multi-disciplinary process. He seeks and accomplishes a comprehensive integration of the whole systems approach to natural processes. Brian also values educational and mission-driven site designs for all of his projects which include botanical gardens, nature centers, and youth camps.

When not working, he also enjoys rooting for the Aggies of Texas A&M University, his alma mater, exploring national parks, volunteering at local nature centers, and fishing.

EDUCATION

Bachelor of Landscape Architecture
Texas A&M University, 2004

Master Naturalist

PROFESSIONAL GROUPS

American Society of Landscape Architects (ASLA)

Friends of Oak Cliff Parks, Board Member, 2010-2015

PROJECT EXPERIENCE

Galveston Island State Park | Galveston, Texas

Iain Nicolson Audubon Center | Gibbon, Nebraska

Palo Pinto Mountains State Park | Strawn, Texas

Desert Portal & Terrace at the Desert Botanical Garden | Phoenix, Arizona

Red Butte Garden Master Plan | Salt Lake City, Utah

Atlanta Botanic Garden | Atlanta, Georgia

Shangri La Nature Center | Orange, Texas

Energy Square | Dallas, Texas

Downtown Garland Square | Garland, Texas

South Oak Cliff Renaissance Park | Dallas, Texas

Devils River State Natural Area | Val Verde County, Texas

Allaso Ranch | Wood County, Texas

Water Street Development | Irving, Texas

Hi-Line | Dallas, Texas

Confluence Tower | Denver, Colorado

2929 Wesleyan | Houston, Texas

Celina Town Square Park | Celina, Texas

AT&T Discovery District | Dallas, Texas

Durham Park | Richardson, Texas

SOUTH OAK CLIFF RENAISSANCE PARK
DALLAS, TEXAS

DOWNTOWN GARLAND SQUARE
WOODWAY, TEXAS

IAIN NICOLSON AUDUBON CENTER
GIBBON, NEBRASKA